

Congratulations!

You've had your Colonoscopy...now prepare for the hard part. You will now be the "Butt" of humor in your family, the subject of "one-upmanship" in your office...how should you "re-butt" their jokes?

Collected here are the finest clean bottom jokes, humor, and odd bits of trivia, so that YOU can launch a pre-emptive strike with your family, friends, and co-workers...and lead them to get colon cancer screenings for themselves.

So sit back, relax and pass a little wind (don't worry, I put it there myself!). And congratulations again on your courage to go through with your colonoscopy.

I'll see you back again in five or ten years!

Bottoms up!

—Patricia L. Raymond MD
aka "Butt Meddler"

What! There's More?

A man went in for a colonoscopy. The gastroenterologist examined him, and then turned him onto his side to begin the procedure.

The doc immediately noticed a large piece of lettuce protruding from the gentleman's posterior.

"Sir," she said, "did you know that you have lettuce hanging out of your bottom?"

"Yes," replied the man, "but that's just the tip of the iceberg."

ω

Hallmark® Moment

*T*wo gastroenterologist are discussing their most baffling cases. One gastro tells the other one about the day she put her scope into a patient and found a large bouquet of flowers.

The other gastro looks really amazed and asks, “Where did those flowers come from?”

The first gastro shrugged her shoulders and answered, “How should I know? There wasn’t any card!”

